

NAZIS IN BLOODY FLIGHT FROM RED TRAP

Meandering
Along the Main Stem
By WASH FAYETTE

It's good to have good neighbors. . . Mr. and Mrs. Charles Park are finding that out . . . last Wednesday night they were given 119 quarts of canned food, food canned by their neighbors . . . and even before that, 30 members of the Sugar Creek Baptist Church met in the church basement for a miscellaneous shower of household goods for the Parks.

Their home was burned three weeks ago and since then, tangible evidence of good will and help in furnishing the Parks' new home has been pouring in . . . more than 60 families were represented in the gifts presented by the church members.

Mr. and Mrs. Parks are grateful for the unselfish help given them . . . and while they will be ever grateful they know, their neighbors know and you and I know that they would have done the same thing . . . offered the same help had their positions been reversed.

When the Parks are settled again, they won't forget what their neighbors did for them when they needed help . . . they'll remember for a long time . . . and if they ever can help those same neighbors they will in the same spirit that marked the things which were done for them.

Strange as it may seem, I have a tie-pin bearing a pearl and the pearl was old before Columbus discovered America. It is probably the only pin of its kind in existence, and the pearl is fully 1,000 years old.

It is one of a quart or more of pearls found amid several quarts of pearl dust, about the "burial of kings" in the Seip Mound near Bainbridge when it was excavated some 15 years ago.

I picked it up along with several other perforated pearls after the explorers had completed their work of gathering up the hundreds of other pearls that originally had been worth a fortune, and had been worn by the richly garbed Indian royalty on their clothing and about their necks and arms.

Some of the pearls, after 1,000 to 1,200 years burial on the bottom of the huge mound, had turned into dust, and other scores of them, while soft, bore their original luster. They are being preserved at Ohio State Museum where the finest collection of Moundbuilder or Indian relics in existence is housed.

The Moundbuilders used the pearls as beads, although I have seen some of the large ones, not perforated, which formed settings in grizzly bear teeth. These are also in the Ohio State Museum.

Apparently the pearls were from the streams in central U. S., and might have come from the Scioto River, Paint Creek, Deer Creek, or one of the other Ohio streams. As a matter of fact I have a tie-pin set with a small pearl I found in a mussel shell in Rocky Fork Creek a number of years ago.

Here's an antidote for the blues which will work. And the bluer the blues, the better, too. When things seem to be going wrong, the coffee tastes like bitter water and you're ready to punch someone's nose with delight, just shake yourself. Then, speak to everyone you pass with cheery "good morning" or other salutation. Be glad you're "over here" where you can still have this privilege. Make your greeting sincere (it may take practice if you're a real grouch) and within a block or two whatever caused you to be down in the dumps will disappear completely. You don't believe it? I dare you to try it out once!

TWO FOUND KILLED IN BLOODY HOUSE

LUBBOCK, Texas, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Dr. and Mrs. Roy Hunt were found slain today in their blood-soaked bed at their home.

Their arms and legs were bound with metal coat hangers and rope and officers said their bodies were "in a condition so horrible as to defy description."

Dr. Hunt, 37, was the central figure in a shooting last year for which Dr. William R. Newton of Cameron, Tex., was given a seven-year sentence. Mrs. Newton is under indictment and awaiting trial.

FATHER DRAFT
MAY BE BALKED
BY CONGRESS

President, Meanwhile, Gives Stern Denial To Charges By 'Mud-slingers'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The House got its long-awaited fling at father-draft deferment legislation today.

Indications were it would, by nightfall, pass a bill to put husbands and fathers at the bottom of the induction list and strengthen the authority of Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey in administration of the Selective Service law.

Up for action was a rewritten version of the measure on this subject which the Senate passed several weeks ago when the upper chamber rejected proposals for an outright ban on general father-drafting.

Opening debate on the House version, Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the military committee which did the revamping, asserted the legislation was necessary "to preserve the home of this nation, which are the foundation of our society and the bulwark of our home front effort."

"All this bill does," he said, "is to see to it that the fathers of this country are not drafted before all the available non-fathers are taken."

Specifically, the bill requires that men be called for induction on a nation-wide basis in this order:

Single men without dependents, single men with collateral dependents, married men without children and married men with children.

It does not prohibit the granting of deferments to men without children, nor does it make any distinction between children born before Pearl Harbor and those born since then.

German Morale Cracked By Air Attack
Returned Prisoners Say, However, Russia Is Biggest Fear

By HENRY B. JAMESON
LEITH, Scotland, Oct. 26.—(AP)—British soldiers who have just returned from Nazi prison camps say German hope and morale is cracking under the strain on the steadily increasing British and American air attacks on their key cities and war factories. Without exception every one of the repatriates who talked with interviewers after landing at this post yesterday expressed a similar belief—that the Germans realize they are licked. "Even German newspapers are sparing them nothing now," said the Rev. G. R. Grundy, 64-year-old veteran who lost an arm in the last war but who nevertheless volunteered for service and was captured at Boulogne in May, 1940. "Depression and fear lies over Germany today," Mr. Grundy declared. "The feeling of the German people is that Great Britain once again will be victorious. However, German civilians do not appear to fear Britain as much as they do Russia. Russia is the skeleton behind the door and they are beginning to

Three Young Men Held
In Kidnap Conspiracy

LA CROSSE, Wis., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Two young tree surgeons were under arrest today on charges of kidnaping and conspiracy to kidnap wealthy Mrs. Ladd Kidder, 60, whom one of them married last Friday.

The men named, District Attorney Frederic W. Crosby said, are Ross W. Hastings, 30, and Owen McCabe, 25, both of Peoria, Ill. Hastings is held in county jail here. McCabe, arrested at Calumet City, Ill., waived extradition and was on his way back to La Crosse, the prosecutor said.

Mrs. Kidder, owner and president of the Pyroil Co., and widow of W. V. Kidder, the company founder, was married to Hastings, who worked on her estate here, at Pekin, Ill., by the Rev. C. E. Francisco, pastor of the First Christian Church, Crosby said.

At Peoria, court records revealed that Rose Hastings was granted a divorce from her husband in county court last Friday on charges of cruelty, a few hours before Hastings married Mrs. Kidder.

The district attorney said the men were named in warrants at the request of La Crosse police several days before the couple were married.

Crosby said he had talked with Mrs. Kidder last night but could not reveal details of the conversation.

The warrants were issued, he added, after Mrs. Kidder left La Crosse with the two men. He declined to discuss circumstances that resulted in the warrants, adding that he would be able to release more information when McCabe was returned from Calumet City.

CRISIS IS NEAR
IN COAL STRIKE

Labor Board Decision on Wage Contract Possibility

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—With more than 45,000 soft coal miners still on strike in eight states, a War Labor Board (WLB) decision on a proposed wage contract was an immediate possibility today.

Chairman William H. Davis finished a tentative opinion for submission to the entire board at resumption of the conferences this morning.

Meantime, the "no contract, no work" attitude of many miners brought about some fresh walkouts despite pleas of the United Mine Workers that the men resume production which has been hit hard. In many fields, the number who returned and those who newly joined the strikes was a matter of guesswork. The best available figures on the total still off the job were:

Alabama	19,000
Kentucky	8,000
Indiana	7,000
Illinois	5,500
West Virginia	2,800
Pennsylvania	1,400
Virginia	1,000
Ohio	400

Some 1,500 miners picked up their tools again in Ohio and others returned in Alabama but 1,400 quit at a mine near California, Pa., and West Virginia reported seven mines

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander of the Aleutians area, disclosed today that "Quite a few" Japanese submarines were sunk by American destroyers while the enemy evacuated its garrison on Kiska Island.

"We got quite a few and it was enough to make it hurt," he said in a press conference in which he outlined the long campaign that drove the Japanese from the Aleutians. Kinkaid, Secretary of the Navy Knox explained, is in Washington prior to taking over new duties as commander of naval forces in the Southwest Pacific succeeding Vice Admiral Arthur S. Carpender, who will become commander of the Ninth Naval District with headquarters at Great Lakes, Ill., succeeding Rear Admiral John R. Downes, who is retiring.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Mary Ellen Richards, one of three women who escaped the women's reformatory at Marysville in 1939 with Velma West, notorious Painesville husband-killer was granted a parole today, effective Dec. 1.

Miss Richards, a native of Clinton County, was sentenced from Cincinnati in 1934 to serve 10 to 25 years for robbery.

June 18, 1939, she fled with Mrs. West, Virginia Brawdy of Akron and Florence Sheline of Gallipolis during an early morning rain. The latter two were captured shortly afterward, but Miss Richards and Mrs. West fled to Texas, where they hid in Dallas before being apprehended more than a month after their escape.

DANGERS GROW
JAPS ARE TOLD

Hirohito and Tojo Move To Pressure People

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Japan's two highest leaders—Emperor Hirohito and Premier Hideki Tojo—joined today in giving the 83rd special session of the Diet a sober appraisal of the war outlook, with Tojo asserting the Allies, "defeated at the beginning," were now "overcoming many difficulties and dangers and the war is growing in intensity."

The Emperor, in one of his infrequent declarations on the war, termed Japan's present situation "truly grave."

His imperial rescript was read in his presence at the formal opening of the Diet session, according to a domestic Tokyo broadcast reported to the Office of War Information.

Because there "is no time to be slack in war," Tojo said, the government has decided on a new industrial and manpower mobilization program to "strengthen production of war materials, especially of airplanes, so that our defensive structure may be made unwavering."

The Premier's address, as broadcast to the Japanese people, contrasted sharply with the version broadcast by the Tokyo radio in English in a program designed especially for American audiences. In the export version, Tojo's references to "complicated" war situations and his appeals for expansion of fighting strength were missing.

ent and A streets, N. E., about a half mile from the national capitol. Returning to her home through the murk of a squally evening after posting a letter at a corner box, she saw a car draw up to the curbing. A well dressed man was removing a woman from the front seat. When she turned around to have a better look, she reported, the man asked gruffly: "What do you think you're looking at?"

Frightened, she ran into a nearby house and told what was going on. A chauffeur who went out to investigate found the young woman lying at the base of a tree, and partly across the sidewalk. She had five bullet wounds in the head and one in the hand, and died mumbling incoherently.

The car had disappeared.

Nearby, those who gathered to give assistance found a manhole cover which had been partially lifted as though in preparation for dropping something down the opening.

The victim, about 30 years old, was neatly dressed, and wore a string of inexpensive pearls and a gold ring with a blue stone. She carried no identification.

ALLIES ADVANCE IN ITALY WITH BITTER FIGHTING

More Jap Planes Downed in Pacific Area and Allied Planes Aid Yugoslavs

By RICHARD McMURRAY

Four Russian armies pursued bleeding German divisions in "disordered retreat" today from the Dnieper bend toward the Bug River in a campaign which a Berlin military commentator said was "deciding the fate" of the war on the eastern front.

Allied armies in Italy resumed their offensive toward Rome and made general advances which overran at least eight towns. The American Fifth Army captured Raviscanina, 15 miles south of the transport center of Isernia and 19 miles north of Capua. They also took Francolise, 2½ miles west of Spauranice, and Rocchetta. The British Eighth Army spread from central Italy to the Adriatic, seized Bojano on the main Campobasso-Isernia highway, Spineto, Petrella, Baranello and Calata. All the gains were made in difficult terrain and against strong German opposition.

More Jap Planes Downed
The destruction of 123 to 168 Japanese planes at Rabaul raised the 12-day total for Gen. MacArthur's air force to nearly 800 in the Southwest Pacific alone—a rate faster than the Japanese can replace. The latest blows, at the major enemy base were struck Saturday and Sunday, apparently softening Rabaul for invasion. The last Solomon Island of Bougainville lost effective use of its Kahili airfield in recent 172-ton bombardments.

The capture of Dnepropetrovsk and Dneprodzerzhinsk gave four Russian armies of the Ukraine the whole Dnieper River bend, one of the most important military and economic centers of the Soviet Union. The Crimea was in grave danger of becoming a vast Nazi vault.

Red troops were storming the outskirts of Krivoi Rog, great iron and communications center only 85 miles from the Bug. The 23rd German tank division was trapped in Krivoi Rog and being chopped to pieces.

The Nazi military spokesman told Swedish correspondents that the entire 180 mile stretch from Kremenchug to recaptured Melitopol was one unified battle.

Nazis Are Desperate
Moscow said the retreating Germans were fighting desperate but futile rearguard battles, intent only upon saving as much as possible from what may prove to be the greatest German disaster since Stalingrad.

London estimated a million Germans were involved in the mass retreat. The Polish telegraph agency said the Nazis had

COLLISION VICTIMS
ARE BURIED AT SEA

Impressive Services Held on Warship in Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A warship headed out to sea today carrying to their burial place "somewhere in the Atlantic" the bodies of 36 of the 88 men killed when two tankers collided in the darkness last Wednesday off the coast of Florida.

Impressive funeral services were arranged for the unidentified victims, Rear Admiral W. R. Munroe, commandant of the Seventh Naval District, announced. One other body "has been recovered and, after being identified, was held for relatives."

The two blacked-out ships, one northbound with a cargo of high-test gasoline and the other southbound in ballast, crashed close to shore.

Twenty-eight men leaped into the sea and escaped. The rest perished.

50,000 BUSHELS OF SOYBEANS ON TRACK HERE

Gwinn Plant Has 300,000 Bushels in Storage Bins Here

Thirty carloads of soybeans shipped into this city for storage in the big plant of the Gwinn Elevators, were standing on the tracks awaiting unloading, Tuesday morning, and a dozen additional carloads were expected to arrive during the day.

The 30 carloads represented approximately 50,000 bushels of the valuable beans, or upward of $100,000 worth, on the track here.

When the present consignment is unloaded and placed in the big bins of the Gwinn Company, the plant will contain around 300,000 bushels of soybeans, in storage to await shipment to the processing plants at Circleville and elsewhere.

Some delay in unloading the large number of cars was being experienced at the elevator Tuesday as result of a breakdown of the unloading equipment, but repairs were being rushed to completion.

Manager Willard McLean said that the beans being received here for storage are coming from many points in Ohio.

Space in the elevators is being reserved for Fayette County beans, it was indicated.

CRISIS DRAWING NEAR IN COAL MINE STRIKE; WLB MAY ACT SOON

failed to operate because 2,500 men did not show up.

The stoppages and other losses in manpower, were blamed by the solid fuel administration for a loss of nearly 500,000 tons of bituminous coal production in the week ended Oct. 16.

As some workers drifted back to the mines, the WLB craved its back-to-work deadline of last midnight with the explanation that the leadership of the UMW was "making a sincere effort" to end the wildcat strikes.

The proposed contract before the board, would grant upwards of $1.50 a day more to Illinois miners by extending their workday to cover underground travel pay. The union has urged that it serve as a model for contracts throughout the industry but Appalachian operators have vigorously opposed it.

William Kennedy, district organizer for the United Mine Workers, scheduled a meeting at Bellaire for this afternoon with workers from the Hanna Coal Company's Idle Piney Fork mine in an attempt to get the men to return to work.

Piney Fork is the only idle mine in the state, Adolph Pacifico, vice president of UMW district No. 6, said in announcing the meeting. Four hundred are employed there.

of American forces it was not known definitely that the Japanese had given up the island. For a time, he said, it was believed that the enemy had moved back into the hills, in which case, he said, long fighting would have been necessary.

That belief, he explained, was based to some extent upon the Japanese continuance in a road building operation until the last day any action was seen on Kiska. He also reported that some enemy buildings had been torn down, leading to a belief that the Japanese might have used the lumber to construct new installations in the hills.

He said frankly, "We were surprised that they all got out. When we got on the beach without being fired on we thought they were still back in the hills. We couldn't afford to assume they all got out."

mined Lvov in southeast Poland, preparing to blow the city to ruins if the Russians could not be checked.

The Russians said thousands of Nazis were killed. Behind the enemy lines, Red air forces spread confusion along the retreat route, complicating Hitler's withdrawal.

At Krivoriog, the Russians stood at a base 160 miles away from the great Black Sea naval base of Odessa and 180 from Rumania's Bessarabian frontier.

Violent but less spectacular battles continued around the Ukrainian capital of Kiev and the White Russian communication center of Gomel.

The Hull-Eden-Molotov conversations moved into their eighth session with the foreign ministers of the three powers pleased with their progress.

While the Allied armies beat forward in Italy, the British announced they had "successfully evacuated" Cos in the Dodecanese Islands of the Aegean under pressure of a German air and sea attack. The British apparently clung to Leros where two Nazi planes were shot down.

American long range fighters skirted the Dalmatian coast.

BLACKBIRDS VANISH WITH COLD WEATHER

With arrival of colder weather last week, blackbirds and starlings, which had infested trees in the city at night, and had been a nuisance for many weeks, changed their roosting places to other areas.

Apparently nearly all of the birds vanished the same day, and have not returned, although presence of the birds in the rural areas has been reported since they left the city.

haven for draft dodgers and slackers, President Roosevelt said today that only 3.2 percent of the nearly 3,000,000 full-time civilian employees of the government had received occupational deferments.

To Vice President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn, for reading to Senate and House, the president sent a 2,700-word letter of rebuttal to what he termed "groundless charges" and "irresponsible rumors." Many of these charges came from congressmen during arguments over the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

These "unfair accusations must be emphatically denied," Mr. Roosevelt asserted. Here are some of the figures he used to back up his denial.

Permanent full-time employees of the government, both men and women—2,980,404, of whom 2,825,904 are in continental United States—as of July 31.

Of those in the United States, 1,952,700 work for the War and Navy departments, and about 84,000 have been given occupational deferments.

The Post Office Department, the next largest employer, has 315,741 workers of whom only 61—all postal inspectors—have been deferred.

In all other governmental agencies, 13,992 men have been granted occupational deferments.

The total occupational deferment figure is 98,053.

In addition, there are 2,003 uniformed personnel in the War Shipping Administration's training organization and 14,050 cadets in the training organization schools, who have been deferred, but the president said these men are not "really part of the civilian establishment of the government."

Mr. Roosevelt asserted draft-age men in the War and Navy departments are being "released constantly" for military service and are being replaced in accordance with replacement schedules.

Outside the War, Navy and Postoffice departments, Mr. Roosevelt said, about 119,380 employees are men of draft age—exclusive of those in several small agencies which did not submit reports. Of these, he said, 25,537 are single, 26,195 are childless married men, and 64,647 are fathers.

Of the single men, he said, 3,392 were awaiting induction as of August 15, 11,667 were classified as physically unfit for military service and 1,502 had been deferred for dependency or hardship reasons. No information was available on 2,743, and 6,043 had been given occupational deferments.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Great Stroke of Adversity Might Bring Collapse of German Morale Any Time

What justification, if any, is there for the various European reports that Germany is on the point of cracking up?

For instance, a dispatch from Scotland reports that British soldiers who have just returned from Nazi prison camps say German hope and morale are cracking under the strain of the steadily increasing British and American air attacks on key cities.

London tells us that statements leaking out of Germany through neutral countries describe last week as the blackest of the war for Hitler, and hint at a critical situation on the home-front.

Nazi commentators have made no bones recently of expressing grave concern over the trend of the fighting on the Russian front.

Dr. Jenny, widely known Swiss newspaperman, writes that "in wide circles it is considered possible that Germany will break within a few weeks."

Ivan Yermashov, Soviet commentator, wrote the other day in the Red Star, organ of the Russian army, that a decisive blow through France by the western Allies would bring about swift defeat of Germany and a quick end to the war.

Our brigadier general, Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the United States heavy bomber division in England, says that German war industry will be so smashed by spring as the result of the Allied bombing that the Nazis won't be able to fight effectively any longer on land, or sea, or in the air.

Of course, spring isn't at hand, but it isn't so far off, at this. Well, the answer to all this is that Germany's immediate fate is so delicately balanced that a great stroke of adversity might bring sudden collapse.

As General Sir Bernard Montgomery says in a message to his army, "if ever anything is certain in this life it is now clear that we shall win this war." When that stage of dead certainty is reached in a conflict, then anything can happen. It might be a military disaster, or it might be the sudden cracking of morale on the home front, such as Germany experienced in the last war.

There's no harm in hoping hard that there will be such a collapse, and we're not crazy to think about it. However, it would be criminal for us to fool ourselves into believing that our wishes are actualities—that Germany is bound to collapse in the near future.

What right have we, for instance, to assume that the morale of the German army might crack? It has been magnificent, so far as has been reported. The great and protracted Nazi retreat to the Dnieper without a collapse was one of the outstanding achievements of the war. Because a retreat is one of the most difficult of military operations. That called for fool-proof morale on the part of the Hitlerite troops.

We have said the war is in that stage where anything can happen. That cuts two ways. One of the things might be the development of unexpected resistance on the part of the Nazis. There's no reason to believe that anything will occur to give Hitler a chance to win the war, but he might get a break which would enable him to stand off defeat for a considerable period.

While we're doing all this wishing, we must stop and ask ourselves why it is that Hitler is in such a precarious position. The answer is vital to victory. It is that we not only have grand fighting forces battling for us, but that the home fronts in America and Britain have by a supreme effort produced the war materials with which the Nazi gangster has been driven into a corner.

Unrelenting pressure by that combination—the fighting forces and the home-front—has turned the trick. By the same token, if we relax the pressure we give Hitler a fresh lease of life.

It's all right to wish for a collapse of the enemy, and pray for a collapse—so long as we work like the devil at the same time.

BIG SNAKES AND JUNGLE RATS ARE BAD COMPANY

Former Albers Employee Writes from Jungle in South Pacific

Big snakes, jungle rats of huge proportions and even crocodiles are some of the pests being encountered by Fayette County men in the Southwest Pacific where, every time the Jap sticks his head up, they knock his ears down.

Charles F. Powers, for two years employed at Albers Super Market here, but for the past 22 months stationed in the Southwest Pacific fighting Japs, writes interestingly of life at the front, in a letter just received by H. R. Sheridan, manager of Albers Super Market.

Powers' parents reside in Hillsboro.

His letter addressed to Sheridan "and all the gang" follows:

While I am sitting here with nothing to do, I think I had better write a few lines to you, or you may think the Japs have beat me to the punch. I am still up here worrying the little yellow Japs. I have now been overseas over 22 months and in that time I have been in civilization only two months which isn't so good. I still miss the old store and all of you, sure wish I was there now instead of here in the jungle.

I am sitting here in the tent and the rain is blowing in at all corners but I am wet more times than I am dry. I guess you have seen some pictures of how we are wading through mud and water. Well it is even worse than they show, but then we are used to it.

I guess you can get used to anything, even a snake or lizard in your bed. I wish I had a nickel for every snake that I have killed around or near my bed. They are anywhere from two feet to sixteen feet. I have seen even bigger ones here. There are a few "crocks" but we don't shoot many these days.

The worst animal here is the jungle rat, they are sometimes 10 or 12 inches long not counting the tails. How would you like a few of them in the store?

I will try and send you a snapshot if the ones that were taken turn out. I would enjoy some pictures of you. I bet I wouldn't know any of the guys. Then I guess they are all new ones since I left over two years ago. Are the girls still there? I don't get much news from around there any more. In fact from none of the places. If I am lucky enough to get another job with the company I sure won't mind working long hours as I sometimes now go for 24 without any sleep, and it is harder than the work I did back there.

Are Bob and Charlie still in the States? As you probably know I am considered a part of the AAF. But over here all work together as one unit—the Aussies, Navy, Air Force and the Army. We are all in it so what make the difference. Even the Marines are with us.

The last letter that I received from Penny, there were several of the men over here in this area. In fact some are located very near me. Others are just behind me. But I don't think there are any in front of me. I am pretty far advanced. Just where I cannot say but I keep moving forward all the time and at this rate I will see Tokyo one of these days, and that will sure

ENEMY ESPIONAGE GROWS UP!

By GEORGE ROBOZ
Central Press Writer

NEW YORK—Want to catch a spy? Okay, brother—go right to it! First, find a likely looking suspect, a guy like Ernest Frederick Lehmitz, for instance. He isn't tall, and he isn't short. He looks kinda meek, wears a stringy necktie and hasn't too much hair left on top. He looks like the guy sitting across the subway aisle from you—like your brother-in-law or maybe—take a look in the mirror—like you.

It isn't easy to catch him, either. The Federal Bureau of Investigation trailed Lehmitz for many months before the cuffs were slapped on his wrists. It shadowed a super spy ring for two years before it brought the ring's 33 members to trial in Federal court, Brooklyn, in September, 1941.

Nope, catching spies is not a business for amateurs. Things have changed since World War I.

The German espionage system in the United States was a hit-and-miss affair, mostly miss. Because Franz von Papen—now ambassador to Turkey and center of the espionage web the Nazis have carefully woven in the Near East—was military attaché to the German embassy in Washington, he automatically became Mr. Big of the few German spies in the United States when the war broke out in 1914.

Berlin entrusted him with three jobs:

- 1—Espionage.
- 2—To create trouble between the United States and Mexico, to distract our attention from Europe.
- 3—Sabotage.

Von Papen's first step was to purchase the Wall Street firm of G. Armsinck and company, to use as a front for his activities. From there he sent out his agents—sailors from German ships caught in American ports, Germans who had become United States citizens, and pro-German sympathizers—to do their work. Some were distributed in the most vital defense areas in the country.

How He Operated

He soon began organizing for large scale sabotage. Plans were made to destroy the Canadian Pacific railway to prevent the transportation of troops across Canada, the Canadian-American bridge at Vanceboro, Me., and the Welland canal which runs around Niagara Falls in Ontario.

Meanwhile, German saboteurs got to work in United States munitions plants and shipyards. Altogether, Von Papen supposedly spent $40,000,000 alone on sabotage in some 40 industrial plants and freight yards, not to mention 50 ships which were blown up at sea by bombs his agents had placed aboard.

Then, in 1915, came the boner. Von Papen entrusted his records to an assistant who fell asleep and "lost" them on an elevated train here in New York. The records were so compromising that Washington demanded Von Papen's recall. He left, very conveniently, taking along his check-book.

BAGGED BY F. B. I.—Ernest Frederick Lehmitz, above, doesn't look like the movie-goer's idea of a spy—but, of course, they never do.

The check-book smashed the espionage system he had tried to build up in the United States. It fell into the hands of the British, who turned it over to us. It still had all the stubs attached, giving Washington the names of all the people who were on Von Papen's payroll.

It was a simple matter to place his agents under surveillance, and when the United States entered the war in April, 1917, to round up those who were still in the country.

This time, it's different. In the 10 years Hitler has been in power, he has been able to train his spies and saboteurs carefully in schools in Hamburg and other German cities. He has had the time to slip them into this country. Many are undoubtedly respected citizens of the United States like Lehmitz, the most zealous air raid warden and the most enthusiastic Victory gardener in Tompkinsville, Staten Island.

Or, like Lemitz' self-confessed accomplice, Erwin Harry De Spreiter, they may be the heads of established, going business concerns.

That was the way the Nazi espionage system worked in Poland, Holland, Belgium, France, and all the occupied countries.

They are clever, not like Gustave Rummich, the son of a minor Austrian consular official, who contacted the Nazi secret service through an ad placed in the papers and was arrested in 1938. He brought about his own arrest by phoning the passport bureau in the New York Sub Treasury building to say, "I am Under-Secretary of State Edward Weston. Please send 50 blank passports to me at the hotel."

So—what can you do to help round up Axis spies in this country? Mighty little, the authorities are agreed, beyond remembering to . . .

Keep silent if you know anything that could be of military value to the enemy. Report to the F. B. I.

FOXY FRANZ—A slick and suave Nazi diplomat in 1943, Von Papen bungled things badly for his Berlin bosses as a spy in 1915.

any well-founded suspicions you may have. It's a 10,000-to-1 bet that the person you suspect is as harmless as you are, but let the F. B. I. determine that.

A. B. Murray, National War Fund chairman for Fayette County, today received a personal letter from Governor John W. In his letter Governor Bricker pointed out the hardships that will come upon the people of the Allied Nations with the approach of winter, and the need of sustaining the morale of the American men and women now on the war fronts.

Governor Bricker's letter follows:

"As winter approaches, we realize more and more the additional hardships that will come upon the unfortunate people of the Allied Nations. They will need food, clothing, shelter and medicine, as perhaps never before. Our own boys and girls in foreign fields, too, will need our sustaining influence that their morale may be kept high.

THIS TAXATION PROGRAM

Consideration by Congress of a general sales tax should be proof to the nation that the national government has begun to scrape the barrel. There is no secret as to why a sales tax is so popular at the moment with congressmen. Corporation taxes and the higher bracket income taxes are very close to the point of maximum productivity. That is one of the things New Deal politicians do not wish to talk about.

High bracket income taxes and corporation taxes have been driven to the point where they can not be raised much higher with safety. So if vast new sums are needed they must come from the middle and lower tax brackets. Congressmen can hardly be blamed for being fidgety when they come to consider these two huge groups of tax-payers and so it is perfectly natural for them to be swinging toward higher and higher excise taxes and a general sales tax.

The truth of the situation is that the New Deal government has been the most tremendously wasteful administration in this nation's history. Bureau has been piled upon bureau, department upon department. Government employees themselves laugh about it and call Washington a "madhouse." Agency overlaps agency and duplication of effort is very nearly the rule rather than the exception.

No citizen wishes to curtail the government's powers on necessary war expenses. The nation's efforts in buying war bonds are proof of that. But no citizen can remain impervious to the huge amounts of money going down the gaping maw of non-war agencies and departments.

The tax problem can be solved when the government decides to start paring down its giant bureaucracy, by eliminating useless non-war bureaus, by intelligently trimming its pay rolls and expenses. But if the government insists on continuing as it is—and the public permits it to do so—Congress will have no choice. All income taxes will be driven to the point of absolute maximum productivity, excise taxes will be driven to the limit, and a general sales tax will be forced upon the nation—an ever-mounting sales tax to meet the demands of an ever-hungry bureaucracy.

He who pays taxes—and that means every citizen—may well sit and ponder this national crisis. For that is what it is.

ABOUT FOOD SUPPLIES

There is nothing so good for a finicky appetite as the suggestion that there may not be enough food to go around. Americans have been toying with that thought this year for the first time in a century or so. Maybe we all need to have a look at the facts. They won't bite us.

On the credit side our total production of foodstuffs this year will probably run 31 percent above the average for 1935-38. Next year it should be about 36 percent up. This sounds swell—and it is.

On the debit side about 13 percent of our foodstuffs this year will go to the armed forces, about 10 percent to lend lease, about 2 percent to Central and

Today's Horoscope

Today as a birthday gives literary ability, deep attachment to home and loved ones, and a rigid sense of justice. Your personal charm attracts many staunch friends. You are self-reliant, considerate and very fond of reading. Very early this morning, before it is light, a plan to raise a fund for the needs of a local organization may formulate in your mind. Be co-operative and adaptable this morning, but don't fluctuate from one thing to another. Eight twelve P. This leaves about 75 percent for home consumption, or approximately what we had during the years 1935-39. But there is more demand for it—more "effective demand," as the economists call it, with money to back it up—than there was then. Some of us feel pinched when we can't buy steaks and other luxuries but others are eating better than they ever did before. It was high time they ate better. It has been estimated that in pre-war times one-fourth of the population was under-nourished.

What we face is a kind of equalization of diets. There is enough for all, but not enough for some to have too much while others have too little. And there is not enough to waste.

Food specialists believe that from 20 to 30 percent of our food supply is wasted—in gardens, stores, eating places and homes, and in transit. This is just about enough to meet all our emergency requirements.

Our ancestors had words for it. They said, waste not, want not. They said, wilful waste makes woeful wants. If we can re-learn that lesson we shall be all right.

The younger generation's great mistake is that it has learned things too readily from the older.

The best way to show your mettle these days is to show it to the scrap metal drive collector.

Psycho-somatic Medicine

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

A NEW branch of medical practice is called "Psycho-somatic Medicine." Psycho means mind and soul and somatic means body. The general idea behind these words is a very old one. The newest and rawest interne in the medical ward soon finds out that it is just as important to know what the patient thinks about his disease as what disease he has. And, as some pundit said long ago, it is just as important to know what kind of a patient the disease has as what kind of a disease the patient has.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

I gather from many letters I get from my medical friends in the armed forces that the problem is even more acute in military practice than in civil life. A soldier in the army can always make a request to see a doctor—it doesn't cost anything and the doctor is near at hand at all times. And a great deal of the time the doctor has a hard time determining whether the psychic part of the soldier or the somatic part is really making the trouble.

Weighing Evidence

Here is a soldier with a pain in the stomach. The doctor can't see anything, and he can't feel anything, and the X-ray doesn't show anything. There is no way on earth to prove that fellow hasn't got a pain, but the evidence is against it. Maybe his pain is just that he would like to get back to Ottumwa, Iowa again. Well, that's all very natural and reasonable, but we have a war on our hands and we have to win it, and we need men to do it with.

Of course some of the chronic complainers are easy to spot. You can cure them by putting them in the toughest and most hazardous post when a skirmish comes along. Recurrent stomach aches have a way of cleaning up if the patient knows he will be under gunfire every time he has one. Some also are so physically sick that they are not fit for duty at all and might as well be sent home at once. But the point is that the duties of the medical officer are not all simple and do not entirely consist of handing out sulfa drugs and doing operations.

There is another feature of the case which is that fundamentally soldiers of different nationality are trained in different psychology. The Americans as a rule are given to overstatement, which flabbergasts an English soldier about half the time, and the English soldiers are given to understatement, which makes the American think he is a cold nose.

There is need for a great deal of anthropological psychology in the army among both officers and men. American parents push their children forward, encouraging them to do stunts that often they are unable to do, while the English parents repress their children and assign them the role of quiet spectator while their elders show off—say at cricket.

The problem is going to be even more complicated when and if they get up against the Japanese. The Japanese boy has been taught that any kind of boasting, or display of pain is contemptuous, feminine and weak. Studies of the Japanese soldier when he is drunk show that he forgets all this family discipline easily and is underneath a show off.

While we all belong to the same species we are quite a varied bunch of animals.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

T. Y.—What are the causes of cystitis? Do varicose veins have any connection with it?

Answer: Cystitis is inflammation of the bladder. The commonest cause is probably secondary to enlargement of the prostate. Other causes are spinal paralysis, stone in the bladder and relaxed perineum. Varicose veins have no necessary connection with it.

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

ADAM WAS thinking things far more serious. Otto—sullen—never very friendly. And Mrs. Rotter, the pantry woman, helping her nephew buy a motor boat. Where did she ever get enough money for such a purpose? Could it be that Otto was helping—that he was in some strange way mixed up with sabotage? But no, he mustn't start thinking like that again. Things were running smoothly, and he must not begin imagining that every act around the factory was connected with sabotage. It was childish of him. He must forget such matters, at least for tonight. There was the dress rehearsal, and he wanted to do his best, since the play was written by his friend, Peter.

"Here's where we light!" he said, stopping the car in front of the schoolhouse. He helped Susan out and took her suitcase. "I'll carry it for you," he said. "Good luck! And don't squirm so when I make love to you."

"I'll try not to, Adam. But—" "At least you can be sure that Bill's not going to barge in tonight."

"Yes, I can be sure of that," said Susan. And she wanted to add, "But I can't be sure he's not making love to Alicia Carter."

Then she took her suitcase from Adam and hurried on to her dressing room. Adam went to the one he was to share with Jack Vinton. Jack was already there.

"Hi, there, leading man!" Jack greeted, shoving his naked legs into a pair of soiled slacks. "Do these look as though I'd worn them when mowing the lawn? That's what the script calls for."

"They look as though you'd rolled on the lawn in them," said Adam. He opened his suitcase and hung up the sports things and the tux. "Plenty of time," he said. "I don't want to get into those toga just yet."

There was a tap at the door. "Come in!" Adam called.

The door opened and Mrs. Platt entered. "Adam, have you seen Brenda?" she asked, looking worried.

"Not since yesterday," Adam replied. "Why?"

"She hasn't shown up yet," said Mrs. Platt, "and she has the script. Good heavens, if she doesn't get here in time, and one of you forgets your lines, why—"

"Mr. North!" someone called from outside. "Mr. North, you're wanted on the telephone in the superintendent's office."

"Thanks," Adam replied. "Excuse me, you two!" he added, and hurried out. A moment later he picked up the receiver and said, "Hello! Adam North speaking."

"Adam, this is Brenda," said a voice at the other end of the line. "Get a doctor and get out here as quickly as you can. Hurry!"

"A doctor?" said Adam, startled. "Are you ill?"

"No, it's Zeb Rotter. He's been shot."

"Shot!" Adam exclaimed. "Good Lord!"

"Hurry, please. I can't bring Zeb in, he's bleeding badly. I've already telephoned the police, and—"

"Police?"

"Do stop repeating everything, Adam," Brenda said impatiently. "Come on out—now."

"Coming!" Adam slammed up the receiver and ran back to the dressing room. "Hold the rehearsal," he said. "I have to leave—right away."

Mrs. Platt stared at him. "What is the matter, Adam? You're white as a sheet."

"Can't tell you now," Adam said, dashing out. "I'll see you later."

"Well, of all things!" Mrs. Platt gasped.

Jack reached for his hat. "I'm going, too!"

Mrs. Platt grabbed his arm. "You're doing no such thing!" she said, and held on to him like grim death.

And while they struggled, Adam leaped into his car and drove off. He picked up the nearest doctor and sped out toward the old Leigh place, where Brenda Leigh was bending over Zeb Rotter, trying to staunch the flow of blood from a wound in his side. A pan of blood-stained water was beside her, and Aunt Mary Mosher, eyes wide with fear, stood by with fresh cloths. "There, there, sonny," Brenda said gently. "The doctor'll be here soon, and then—"

"But the men—" Zeb said with effort, "they'll get to the factory. Please let me go. I got to warn everybody."

"I've already warned them," said Brenda. "Don't you worry, Zeb. Everything's going to be all right." Zeb tried to smile. "They certainly went for me—when they found out I knew what they were up to," he said.

"Shh!" Brenda soothed. "Lie still now until the doctor comes." She cradled the boy's head in her arms, and there were tears in her eyes. "You're a brave, brave boy, Zeb."

It was thus that Adam found them when he and the doctor arrived. And as soon as Brenda saw the doctor working with Zeb, she pulled Adam into the next room.

"Those two men, Adam!" she said excitedly. "They're saboteurs. Zeb found out just now, and tried to get to town to warn you. And they shot him. He staggered here to get me to phone, and—and now he may die."

"But where are they?" Adam demanded. "Where did Zeb leave them?"

"At the old Johnson farm," Brenda replied. "He surprised them when he had his boat out. They were working in the cellar of the house, with explosives. Zeb listened, and heard them planning to blow up the factory."

"Good lord!" Adam cried. "I have to get out there before they get away."

"The police are there by now," Brenda said. "I tried to get you at the factory and only got the superintendent. I told him about the men, and then called the police." She covered her face with her hands. "It's been like a nightmare, Adam."

Beastly Brutes Make Home Husbands

By ELLIOTT CHAZE

NEW ORLEANS — Brides and prospective brides who have misgivings about the effect of war's fighting and killing upon the manhood of America may find reassurance in the observations of a student of animal behavior and a professor of psychology here.

They agree that ferocity and ruthlessness in a male do not necessarily make him a cut-up, or a cad around the house. In fact they may have exactly the opposite effect.

Says George Dougless, superintendent of New Orleans' Audubon Park zoo:

"A lion knows he's tough and he doesn't have to kick the little lady around to prove it. Seems like the more aggressive the animal, the better family man he makes."

Says Dr. John Fletcher, professor of psychology at Tulane University:

"Persons who lack confidence in themselves are often extremely irritable in marriage. America's fighting men are taught confidence and they certainly are getting rid of a lot of petty inhibitions on the battlefields."

Day At The Zoo

This thesis stemmed from a Sunday at the zoo and a check-up with Dougless and Fletcher crystallized the impression.

"Our lions often stay up all night roaring sweet nothings in their ladies' ears," Dougless said. "A lion's idea of a love rap would kavo a cow, but it's all right in a family way so long as they understand each other."

He also pointed with pride to the domestic idyll of the park's two kodjak bears, Richard and Louisiana:

Richard is 10 feet tall. He has a head the size of a small bear barrel and when he grins, which is seldom, his face looks like the radiator grill of a truck with a wealth of ivory where the chromium would be. Louisiana is smaller, but as unfriendly looking.

Perfect Couple

Dougless said they are a perfect couple. From adjacent cages they play paws through the bars. Richard delights in tickling his sweetheart's pads with his five-inch claws and conducts himself with the assurance of a beau who has had no complaints.

The Pumas get along well, too. The Russian brown bears are downright smug in their snug steel bungalow. Even the snakes make pretty much of a go of marriage at Audubon.

But the timorous, soft-eyed males of the deer family lead riotous home lives.

"From the elk on down to the scary spiral-horned antelope," the superintendent said, "they butt their mates about something shameful. Sometimes we have to saw their horns down to nubbins."

Monkeys Tyrants

And the tiny tan Rhesus monkeys on Monkey Island will fool you, too. They live on fruit and nuts and have a fair sense of humor about empty peanut shells and bits of twigs tossed across the moat to them.

"Yet, in the matter of matrimony," Dougless said, "they're tyrants."

"There's always one male on the island who's handier with the teeth than the rest. He corners the romance market, roughs up other males who try to horn in. The females are so scared of him they won't look

Washington at a Glance

WASHINGTON — Your capital in wartime:

It seems we were a little previous a couple of weeks ago when we said that Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopkins had moved out of the White House. Like a lot of lesser known Washingtonians, they are having house hunting troubles. They did lease a place on N. street, but the owner got a nibble on a sale and the Hopkinses are waiting to see what happens.

One of our favorite stories about the Hopkins domicile in the White House originated recently when a young woman reporter got into a cab and said: "The White House." The cabbie sat quietly for a few seconds and then said: "Oh yes, that's that two-family house on Pennsylvania avenue."

Handsome young Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. touched off a lot of Washington talk the other day when he was reporting on his recent junket to World War fronts.

He said: "I now come to a topic of great delicacy but of such importance to the people of America that I feel I must mention it."

The "great delicacy," was apparent in the senator's wording of what followed. He talked about Russia's relations with Japan and finally got around to: "It is true that the whole character of the war in the Pacific would change if the United States has access to the Pacific coastal area."

What he meant was simply that we could certainly use some bases in Siberia. It's a point that won't be overlooked when Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin get together for the chin-chin on the war and peace. But observers here predict freely that there isn't the slightest chance of getting any Russian bases, at least until after the war with Germany is over, perhaps not then. Russia has a non-aggression pact with Nips. To urge them to break it would be to demand that they do the very thing which we have condemned the Nazis so much for—making scraps of paper out of solemnly signed treaties.

Our nomination for the champagne bottle buster around these parts is pretty Mrs. Claude Pepper, wife of the dapper senator from Florida.

In the last few weeks, Mrs. Pepper has smashed bottles over the brows of the S. S. Dr. Sully, at St. John's River, Fla., and the S. S. Richard Louis Humphrey, at Tampa. Within a few days she will go to Panama City, Fla., to christen the S. S. Mary Ball.

When it was suggested that Mrs. Pepper should be, by now, something of an expert bottle buster, she said: "There's only one rule when you swing, swing like you mean it. It's bad luck for the ship, you know. If you don't break the bottle."

Pre-Election Meeting Held By League of Women Voters

The executive board of the Fayette County League of Women Voters held a pre-election meeting on last Saturday afternoon with officers, heads of departments, and chairmen of committees in attendance. The president of the league, Mrs. Jean S. Nisley, presided at the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Frank E. Haines, on Washington Avenue.

While the League of Women Voters is strictly non-partisan, and its purpose is educational along the lines of good citizenship, it is interested in the election of the best candidates, regardless of politics.

At this meeting it was the consensus of opinion that in this community there is a dangerous general apathy concerning the importance of the coming local election in which three members of the council are to be chosen from six candidates, and three members of the Board of Education from four candidates.

The League is urging every voter to go to the polls and vote according to his, or her, best judgment.

At this meeting also, there was discussion of the new "Broadside," "Congress and Foreign Policy," sent out by the National League of Women Voters. This pamphlet states that Congress should say now what form of foreign policy it favors, because Congress shares the responsibility for foreign policy with the President.

Treaties must be approved by a two-thirds Senate vote. Funds necessary to carry out plans made with other countries must be appropriated by a majority of both Houses. Laws needed to make the provisions of an international agreement effective must be passed by Congress.

The President alone cannot speak for the United States. The world remembers that after the last war the Senate turned down a plan for international cooperation, and wants to know what Congress is likely to do this time.

Constant cooperation between Congress and the President is essential. The United States needs a clear-cut foreign policy. We cannot have such a policy without agreement between the President and Congress. Many decisions on problems arising out of the war influence postwar policy. Therefore Congress and the President must pull together.

A forthright statement by Congress, now, in favor of international cooperation will help establish a foreign policy that can be counted upon in meeting postwar problems.

Do You Have Charm? Read This and Find Out

Donald Laird, noted psychologist, in an article in True Story magazine, writes that a lady has charm if she can make her escort feel important, whether drinking champagne with him in a ritzy night club or eating hamburgers at a lunch wagon. He has concocted this charm test. Try it and see how you rate. Answer truthfully yes or no.

1. Do you enjoy introducing people to each other?
2. Do you usually think of things to say to others?
3. Can you usually enjoy things that others want to say?
4. Do you try to like people who are not attractive?
5. Do you keep from interrupting people who are talking?
6. Do you remember people's names and faces?
7. Do you talk about things the other person is interested in?
8. Do you avoid embarrassing topics?
9. Do you accept favors by telling people they are thoughtful rather than they should not have done it?
10. Do you watch how others eat, talk and such, and follow their lead?
11. Do you keep from correcting or smiling at the blunders of others?
12. Do you go to some social group at least once a week?

If you have six "yes" answers, you're average. If you have eight or more, you are at your ease and most charming. If you have only four, you are stiff and self-conscious. For these people, Laird says, "Try to be informal and jolly. Think of others more than yourselves. Follow their interests. Do as they do, and after a while try this test again. Your charm rate is sure to rise."

F. C. Light Feted At Surprise Party

Mr. F. C. Light was pleasantly surprised with a covered dish dinner, when his employees and their families gathered in the Eagles recreation room, to celebrate his birthday.

The room was attractively decorated throughout in a pink and white color scheme and the tables were arranged in a L-shape. Bouquets of mums centered the tables.

Mr. Ted Long, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced Mr. Light, who gave a brief history of his last four years of dairy association. He introduced each of his employees as they were associated with his business. He made a short speech of thanks to the numerous guests, following the serving of the delicious and bounteous dinner.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing to the music of an orchestra. Mr. Fred Cameron gave a very appropriate reading, preceding the dancing.

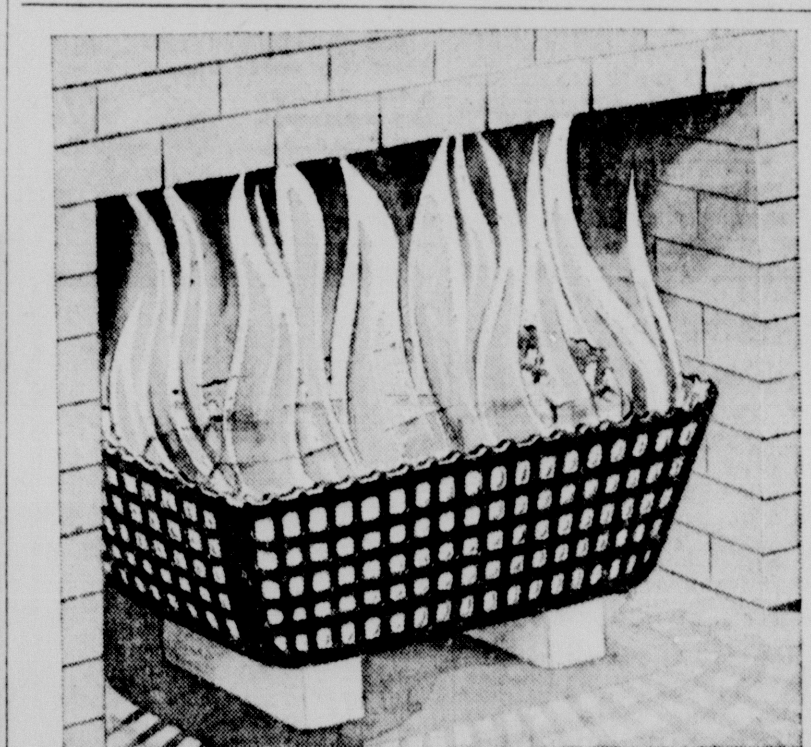

Those present for a most enjoyable evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Long and daughters, Betty and Patty, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Emrick, daughter, Annae, sons, Bill, James and Leo, Mr. and Mrs. William Fletcher, daughter, Marcia Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNutt, daughter, Carolyn Sue, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Kimmy and son, Mr. Ernest Senne, Mr. R. A. THE BASIC coat, like the basic frock, has many devotees, especially amongst women who like simple clothes well spiked with good accessories. For them, Hat-tie Carnegie created this handsome set, consisting of a visored toque in red felt with leopard-frock, a corded bow and a whacking big bag of matching felt with leopard handles. The best designers usually prefer to use fur trimming discreetly, rather than to pile it on and obscure good lines.

One Mystery Follows Another As Durocher Back With Dodgers

By TED MEIER
BROOKLYN, Oct. 26.—(AP)—“The mystery of the 25th player” provided a new puzzle for Dodger baseball fans today in the wake of solution for “the riddle of the fired manager.”

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Chalk up another score for Deacon Branch Rickey. . . . Plenty of baseball club presidents have tried to take the sting out of a disappointing season by firing the manager, but the Branch that grows in Brooklyn is the first one to figure out how to fire the manager and still keep him. . . . Rickey gave Leo Durocher the heave-ho as player-manager just before the Bums staggered home at the end of the season and a month later took him back without the “player” tag. . . . That probably proves that Rickey prefers a manager who generally is in hot water to one who might never get hot.

Hank Wolfe, Richmond (Va.) News-Leader: “Don’t tell me that schoolboy footballers aren’t war-conscious. We ballyhooed a local prep game with full force recently because it matched two undefeated teams. One player, after scanning a few wirecuts, muttered: ‘All that stuff is just propaganda for the opposition.’”

Argentine newspapers devoted a lot of space to the 20th anniversary of the famous Dempsey-Firpo heavyweight fight, asking: “Is the championship going to remain forever in the United States?” . . . And getting no answer from the “Wild Bull,” who still has a lot of the tame bills (D) he collected during his fighting career.

Ott Heller, who has played alongside 12 different defensemen in 13 seasons of big-league hockey with the Rangers: “Ching Johnson would take the man and he’d say: ‘You just pick up the puck, kid, when I get finished with the guy coming in.’ That’s the way I’ve liked to play defense ever since.”

Heat Treators Stretch Lead In API Men's Bowling Loop

The Heat Treators of the API Men's League stretched their lead of the Production Controllers by one game when they won the first and last tilts but dropped the middle one by 8 pins when they met in their regular weekly bowling match on the Main Street alleys Monday night. McQuinniff of the Heat Treators got off to a slow start but finished like a cyclone to set the pace for the victors. His first game added up to only 106 but by the time he reached his last one he was in the groove for 220. Bach of the Controllers, with a 465, came within two pins of McQuinniff's three-game total through consistent plugging.

The Inspectors edged out the Office force, two games out of three and held the advantage in the 2492 to 2357 total scores. The winners lost the opener by a wide margin, came back in the second to take it by six pins and then turned on the heat in the finale to rack up a total of 959 when all five Inspectors got the range of the head pin.

Branch Rickey, president of the club, neatly wrote finish to the “fired manager” riddle by announcing yesterday he had decided to retain Leo “Lippy” Durocher as 1944 manager.

Durocher, center of a player rebellion in July, was rumored on his way out especially after Rickey gave him his unconditional release last month in order to negotiate with him as a free agent.

No sooner had Rickey issued his announcement at a press conference than Durocher, asked if he could regain the confidence of his players, declared “I like all the players but one,” of the 25 on the Dodger roster.

Immediately the identity of that 25th player became the subject of wide speculation.

“Is it Billy Herman?” he was asked. “It isn’t Arky Vaughn, is it?” a writer inquired.

“It is not Herman or Vaughn,” Durocher asserted. “But I don’t want to go into personalities.”

For the first time in his six-year tenure at Ebbets Field Durocher will be strictly a bench manager.

Rickey, referring to suggestions that Durocher took a salary cut, declared “I wouldn’t advise anyone to go out on a limb on that.” Durocher reportedly received $30,000 during 1943.

Basketball, Wrestling Continue at Kent State

KENT, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Kent State University will be represented by basketball and wrestling teams this year, the school's athletic board has decided.

Football and all other sports were abandoned for the duration when Head Coach G. D. Starn enlisted in the Navy physical fitness program last spring.

While all that was going on, at least nine schools met defeat for the first time, while 16 rolled on to their sixth consecutive victories of the year and several others made it five in a row.

Crowded out of the clean class were Coldwater (0, Rockford 19); Celina (0, Bellefontaine 14); Marion (0, Findlay 6); Dayton Fairmont (6, Wilbur Wright 19); Hamilton (0, Springfield 19); Ashland (0, Wooster 27); Cincinnati Walnut Hills (0, Western Hills 12); Toledo Whitmer (6, Perrysburg 12); and Rittman (7, Loudonville 13).

Cleveland Lincoln, unbeaten in 26 starts, trounced Cleveland West 13-0 for its sixth of the year; Olmsted Falls made it 21 straight by tipping over Westlake 9-0. Boardman reached 19 without defeat, 27-7 over Columbiana, and Versailles, winner of five this year, made it 13 in a row with a 9-6 win over West Carrollton.

Support Rallies for Coach Sued by Ousted Boy While High School Football Upset

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—There was plenty of high school football in Ohio last week, but the games took a back seat to a court case in which a griddle sued his coach for the privilege of playing.

The youth is 17-year-old Ralph Stoner of Galion, a star the last two years but banished from 1943 team by Coach James L. Lympy, who said he ousted the player for missing spring practice. The youth and his father sued the coach for $25,000, declaring the coach's action had upset the player's plans for a scholarship at several colleges.

The Galion School Board voted to hire counsel to defend the coach, the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association (500 strong) threw its “support and sympathy” to Lympy, and State Commissioner H. R. Townsend said he “wasn’t going to sit back and see anything happen that might force a coach to use a boy he doesn’t care to use, if I can help it.”

While all that was going on, at least nine schools met defeat for the first time, while 16 rolled on to their sixth consecutive victories of the year and several others made it five in a row.

Crowded out of the clean class were Coldwater (0, Rockford 19); Celina (0, Bellefontaine 14); Marion (0, Findlay 6); Dayton Fairmont (6, Wilbur Wright 19); Hamilton (0, Springfield 19); Ashland (0, Wooster 27); Cincinnati Walnut Hills (0, Western Hills 12); Toledo Whitmer (6, Perrysburg 12); and Rittman (7, Loudonville 13).

The clergyman declared the “bombing of the Reich is terrible,” saying that whole towns have been destroyed, whole factories have been blown to pieces and whole areas have been laid waste.

Ever present in the German mind, Mr. Grundy said, is the disorganization of the country's labor and the constant dread that it “will be our turn next.”

From Corporal William McLoughlin, who was captured at St. Valery, France, in 1940 and later was taken to a camp at Marienburg in West Prussia, came a dramatic eye-witness account of an attack on the German Focke-Wulf aircraft factory there by American Flying Fortresses on October 9.

“In the two or three minutes before the anti-aircraft defenses had time to get going the whole factory had been flattened,” he said.

McLoughlin said there were hundreds of dead and wounded Germans lying around the factory after the raid.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—AP—Wheat prices turned upward fractionally today and most other grains followed along, barley lagged behind most of the session.

Cash demand for wheat was good, and commercial interests were reported active in the futures market. Buying in other pits also offset liquidation on the upturn in some cases. A government quarterly report on wheat supplies showed three positions were more than 250,000 bushels below a year ago, and this was interpreted as bullish by many traders.

At the close wheat was 3/4 to 1/2 higher, December $1.54 1/4, May $1.53 1/4, vs. was unchanged to 1/2 up, December $1.13 1/4, oats were 1/4 off to 1/2 up, and barley was 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

National War Fund Campaign Is Launched Here

DR. VAYHINGER SPEAKS BEFORE OPEN MEETING

Everybody in County Can Contribute To Cause,' Vayhinger Says

That the National War Fund, Inc., is an organization which reaches all over the world and by contributing to it, the war may be made a trifle easier for the fighting men and people in occupied countries was the theme of the speeches made before 150 National War Fund workers when Dr. Ira D. Vayhinger, president of Cedarville College and YMCA, USO worker, spoke at the opening meeting of the drive in Washington C. H. High School auditorium Monday night.

"I believe in the first place, that we're going to win this war," Dr. Vayhinger said. "We are trying to help win the war by making life pleasant and happy—the fighting men are thinking of home—and when the time comes for release, they want to get away from fighting. And we want to give something to the boys that reminds them of home," he continued.

"The USO has 2400 stations in North and South America and on islands in the oceans. If you can imagine boys thousands of miles from home, away from home for the first time, hot and tired—you might imagine how much that friendly touch means. When our boys come off duty, there is a chance for them to relax and rest.

"In speaking of relief extended to prisoners of war, Dr. Vayhinger said: "Suppose you were in a barbed wire inclosure, 20 steps long, 20 steps wide and 10 steps deep with nothing to do during the rest of the day, or tomorrow, or any day. You would be glad to get some books or some stationery.

"The Chinese have been fighting for six years at great odds; they have kept Japan at arms length so that we could get ready. Britain and Russia need medicine and food for their armies and their war orphans.

"You are going out now to raise $22,000. You're going to show our boys that we're behind them 100 percent. Your difficulty will be that you'll expect too small a subscription. This is a rich county and such a gift as to the National War Fund allows you to deduct 15 percent of your income from income taxes. Everybody in this county can contribute to this cause, even if it means a sacrifice—giving is little enough to do," he concluded.

Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of the Grace Methodist Church, in his response to Vayhinger's speech, said: "Somehow this campaign comes very close to our hearts because we are giving to our own men. The gifts of our country will reach over a thousand hands bringing relief and mercy to sovereign peoples everywhere. It makes us conscious of our spiritual kinship."

A. B. Murray, chairman of the Fayette County National War Fund committee, in his opening talk, read excerpts from letters from President Roosevelt, and Governor Bricker concerning the National War Fund campaign.

"The National War Fund offers three types of services. It aids the comfort of our armed forces at home and abroad, it provides assistance to our Allies in occupied and unoccupied countries and it helps local community chests," the President's letter read, in part: "The National War Fund is a direct war challenge and is worthy of our best efforts," Bricker wrote.

J. Roush Burton, treasurer; Carroll Halliday, retail merchant's chairman; Ralph Nisley, township chairman; Walter Patton, publicity chairman; Emmett Passmore, industrial chairman and Glenn Woodmansee, special gifts chairman, were introduced by Murray. Edwin Suntheimer, Valden Long, Ervin Beakman and Stanley Mark were named as co-workers on Passmore's committee and Miss Betty Cook and Frank Ellis as members of Patton's publicity committee.

"The Last Will and Testament of Tom Smith," a National War Fund issued movie gave a graphic picture of what happens to an American flier after he is captured by the Japanese. Lionel Barrymore, George Reeves, Barbara Britton, Walter Abel and Walter Brennan played in the movie, which concentrated on what the flier, George Reeves, thought when he was told by his captors that he was to be shot in 20 minutes.

After the meeting, the various committees were assigned to separate rooms to receive their equipment for taking contributions. In each envelope are window stickers, pledge

WAR FUND DRIVE QUOTAS ARE SET

Quotas announced at the National War Fund open meeting Monday night by Walter Patton, publicity chairman, "may seem low to many of you," he said. He explained that the industrial campaign would take much money out of the townships and wards, though.

"Therefore, individual gifts must be larger. This is the largest individual fund ever called for in this county for war work," he pointed out.

The quotas are: special gifts, $5500; Industrial, $7000; retail, $2000; for the city and county, $5000 each. The county quota has been divided among the townships. Township quotas are: Concord, $400; Jasper, $600; Jefferson, $1000; Paint, $600; Madison, $500; Marion, $300; Wayne, $600; Perry, $400; Green, $300 and Union, $600.

City ward quotas are: wards one and two, $900 each and wards three and four, $600 each.

WILL COLLECT WASTE PAPER

Boy Scouts Will Collect Sunday Afternoon

All Washington C. H. citizens are being urged by Chairman Maynard Craig to make liberal response to the collection of waste paper in the city next Sunday afternoon, and to leave newspapers, magazines and cartons on verandas where the Scouts can easily reach them. Tie papers securely or leave in cartons.

City trucks will be used in making the collection, and liberal response is being urged so that the collection will be a big one.

Need of waste paper in the war effort is being stressed, along with the need of metals and particularly tin. However, the Sunday afternoon collection is limited to paper only, and other collections will follow at intervals.

Chairman Craig is urging housewives to greater efforts in saving fats and tin cans, disposing of their fats at local meat markets and collection of cans will be made later.

cards, National War Fund tags and envelopes on which to write the name and address of each contributor.

"We will have our first report meeting next Thursday night," Walter Patton, publicity chairman announced. "If you need additional materials, they will be available at Rife's Book Store, Patton's Book Store and at the First National Bank," he added.

Rev. H. B. Twining pronounced the invocation and Rev. John K. Abernethy gave the benediction.

The crowd at the meeting, just about half of the 300 expected, was termed disappointing, but the speakers, Patton said, were excellent.

HAROLD LAYMAN RESIGNS AS BOY SCOUT LEADER

Will Be Assistant Executive In Newport, Kentucky

The seven Boy Scout Troops in Fayette County will be without a field executive after November 15 when Harold Layman resigns his post here as field executive for Fayette, Highland and Madison counties. Layman has his headquarters in Washington C. H.

Layman has been field executive here since March, 1942. He will be assistant executive of the northern Kentucky district with headquarters in Newport, Ky. He said that he would probably live in Covington. His territory there will be Kenton and Boone counties.

"My work here has been expanding and putting new life into existing troops as well as establishing new troops and promoting camping and campaigns," Layman said as he explained that his Kentucky post would involve about the same sort of work that he has done here.

He indicated that a new field executive would be sent here as soon as a man could be found for the position, probably around the first of the year. "Columbus headquarters will send a man here whenever one is needed until a permanent executive can be obtained," Layman stated.

Two established troops in the county, at Madison Mills and Bloomingburg, are now without leaders, Layman said. Maynard Icenhower is scoutmaster for Troop 300 in the Marion Township schools. The three troops in Washington C. H. are the Rotary Troop 64, Paul Pennington, scoutmaster; the Police and Fire Department Troop 170, James Yates, scoutmaster, and Grace Methodist Church Troop 32 with Earl Henderson as acting scoutmaster. "The Children's Home Troop, 116, is very active too," he said. There are about 150 Boy Scouts in the county, Layman explained. "We are lacking leadership, though," he continued.

The next project on the Scout calendar is launching a waste paper drive, which will begin within the next two or three weeks. The Boy Scouts in the county have just finished distributing pamphlets concerning SeaBees and the WAVES to county homes, Layman said and added that every home in Washington C. H. was reached when the scouts distributed pamphlets during Fire Prevention Week.

He said that 30 of the Boy Scouts in the county attended Camp Lazarus near Delaware this past summer. "Every troop in the county had some members at camp during one of the eight camp periods this summer," he said.

Layman explained that the troops were self-supporting, by their dues and by campaigns conducted by the individual troops. Annual drives to support scouting and further its activities are conducted in the counties Layman covers. "And the people in all three counties have given liberally," he concluded.

CITY'S REALTY VALUATION HAS $52,000 GAIN

Total Tax Duplicate of Washington C. H. Is $9,109,832

Real estate valuations in Washington C. H. were increased $52,000 by the recent reappraisal, which is regarded as a very small increase covering a period of six years since the previous reappraisal was made.

The old valuation of real estate in the city was $6,294,260, and the added $52,000 makes the total $6,346,260.

New property was largely responsible for the increased valuation of real estate in the city.

In addition to the real estate valuation of $6,346,260 there are the public utilities valuation of $1,361,030, which remains unchanged under the new valuation, and $1,402,542 intangible personal taxes.

The total duplicate for the city under the previous valuation was $9,057,832 and with the increased realty valuation the new duplicate, or value of property in the city generally is $9,109,832.

The increased valuation will not mean much of an increase in the amount of taxes derived from the property it is pointed out.

Incidentally the reappraisal of real estate every six years has been abolished with this year and hereafter valuations will be formulated through the County Auditor's office.

FUEL OIL USE 3 PER CENT OF TOTAL, OPA SAYS

Consumers Should Have Used Three Per Cent of Fuel Oil Ration

As of today, consumers of fuel oil here should have used not more than three percent of their total yearly fuel oil ration, according to the first of a series of reports issued by the OPA.

In cooperation with the United States Weather Bureau and the fuel oil industry, OPA has worked out a method to enable each consumer throughout the rationed area to tell at a glance whether he is properly budgeting his ration to last through the winter, while at the same time providing a reserve for unforeseen cold spells.

A consumer need only to compare his own percentage consumption with the OPA figure to see how he is making out with his fuel oil ration, the report says.

The new heating year began on October 1 and so far and for at least several weeks more, it is likely that the weather will be relatively warm and that householders will burn only a very small fraction of their total allotment.

These weekly reports, OPA said, are based on the type of weather prevailing in each particular area and on the proportion of the heating year which has elapsed to date. The percentage reported is the maximum amount of the heating ration which should have been burned, but actual consumption should be less, OPA said. If the ration is being consumed at the maximum rate, no reserve supply will be available to meet possible spells of unusually cold weather, the report continued.

"To provide for these events, householders should save as much as possible of their ration; the percentage used should be smaller, if possible, than the OPA maximum figure," the report concluded.
